The Kams met their Waterloo yesterday when they went down in defeat before the Mailes, 9-3. Incidentally Reuter was batted out of the box early in the game. Punahou just escaped a shutout yesterday and also just escaped a victory, for it took eleven innings before the Honolulu's could pull in the run to give them the game, 2-1.

The first game, while not fast, was good and exciting towards the last, when a lucky hit will give either side the game. In the eleventh inning a three bagger by Soares brought Joy in and won the game.

The pitching was not extraordinary on either side. Joy struck out nine men against Castle's three. The latter is still handicapped by his bad leg. He was hit hard yesterday. Twelve hits being made off him altogether, but that he kept them well scattered is shown by the low score. In both games in which Castle has pitched he has not given a single base on balls.

In the second game the Kams were decidedly off color, if such a thing can be possible with them. The Mailes started in early to score and in the third inning had things all their own way, tallying five runs and batting Reuter out of the box. Richards went in the box, but he failed to save his team. The kahuna seemed to affect him also, as he was not as good as usual. The Mailes, owing to yesterday's victory, move up and share third place with the Elks.

The Mailes had reorganized their team somewhat yesterday and seem to have a stronger aggregation of hitters.

Wren in the box, showed up better than ever before, striking out ten men and giving two bases on balls. Roberts moved in behind the bat from the position of shortstop. He was bad on passed balls, missing four, but Kealoha was even worse, having five scored against him. Fred Wright, an old Maile player, appeared with the latter team for the first time this season. He was on third base.

Grady then stole second. Cogswell struck out, and Ryan flew out to Vanatta. Wright struck out.

The latter stole third and came home on Reuter's hit to first; Cogswell missed the ball and Reuter was safe, and went to second on a passed ball. Kealoha went out, short to first.

Richards was put in the box in place of Reuter, the latter's work being too much for the Kams.

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE!
St. Peter looked grumpy. Said he:

Here's this flip New York kid,
With a tilt to his lid,
Asking me to give him a night-key!"

SINCLAIR WINS ON MANOA LINKS

The initial tournament of the Manoa Golf Club was successfully inaugurated yesterday afternoon on the new links in Manoa Valley, and, to the accompaniment of lively airs rendered by the Hawaiian Government band and in the presence of a large gathering of the fair sex, the golfers went the rounds of the 18-hole course, the prize winners being H. B. Sinclair whose net score was 94, and Donald Ross who came off second best with a net score of 95.

A fair day with not too much wind gave the players considerable control over the white balls. The scores of all the players are not their best by any means as many players were not used to the greens about the holes, these having but recently been shaved down. Anderson, who is generally a true putter for the holes, missed frequently. Great improvement will be made when the greens are again grassed over lightly.

The tournament began at 2 o'clock at which time drawings by pairs took place and the stick-wielders began driving from the clubhouse tee. The first to start were Charles Hartwell and Donald Ross. Hartwell was classed with D. W. Anderson as a scratch player. He is a 10-handicap man in the American Golf Association and is reckoned as a fine golfer. He went in to the tournament absolutely unacquainted with the course, but he showed in many instances that when in form he is a player skilled in all the intricacies of the game. In putting he is as careful as Anderson. Donald Ross, Hartwell's partner, showed up in fine form and made some skillful drives.

The Hawaiian Government band was stationed on the side of a hill of the Puupueo Tract just below the Cooper Mansion, and were sheltered by a canvas; it played throughout the afternoon. The musicians were provided with shelter and refreshment by J. A. Gilman, agent of the fine tract over a part of which the golfers now roam. Anderson was watched with interest, for he was a scratch man with Hartwell. He tied the winner, Sinclair, but the latter had a handicap of seven which gave him first place. Anderson played throughout with his usual effort at making each stroke a well played point.

Today the best sixteen players in the gross scores of yesterday pair off into eight couples and play a match game for 9-holes, scoring by holes and not by points. The result of this will put four couples again around the course as so on until the winter is announced, he having to play four matches. The best five in today's scoring by holes will be placed on the championship list.

The result of yesterday's scoring is as follows:

WHERE ORIENTAL RUGS COME FROM

One reads occasionally of terrible massacres among all the tribes along the Red Sea in Asia and of tribal wars and other internal troubles in the vast district which stretches from Persia northward, through Trans-Caucasia, to the southern borders of Russia. One hears very little of the industries or the vast number of people who make up the nomadic tribes which rush from one side of the desert to another but one would imagine that the industries of such people could not be very extensive. But the tribesmen are very industrious. They spend months at a time in producing a single rug and these Oriental rugs are more highly prized than any others made by more civilized peoples. To New York and London the rugs of the Far East find their way, sometimes traveling thousands of miles across the hot desert before reaching the steamers which take them to market.

From London and New York these rugs are distributed to the wealthy communities of the world, to the centers of art and fashion, and thence into permanent positions in the clubs and the homes of the artistic people. Most homes in Honolulu are so constructed that Oriental rugs, rich, fine fabrics, are specially adaptable to them. All of the better homes have polished floors, and the soft rugs of rich design and color, create in them beautiful effects.

Messrs. J. Hopp & Co., of King and Bethel streets, have unpacked during the week a fine shipment of real Oriental rugs, consisting of Bokhara, Antique, Persian, and Antique Persian, and Antique Belouchistan, and Antique Daghestan. There are also some Kiz Kelims, primitive tapestries.

These goods will be placed on sale Monday morning.
